VOLUME 19 NUMBER 1

Lynn Shue, Owner-Director

January - June 2005

JANUARY - JUNE 2005 EXHIBITIONS

Message from Lynn. . .

Individuality and artistic integrity are among the most important prerequisites for all fine artwork. As the artist strives to communicate his or her personal vision, the subject of one's style and attitude play an intricate role in creating. Looking inward to find one's artistic truth and to remain committed to works that speak of the artist's goals keep the work new and progressive. The complex combination of self-expression and learned techniques complete and present a finished work that will find fulfillment in all who view it. As a small child lets the intuitive "artist within" guide his strokes, every artist must, on some level, communicate his wonder of the process to the viewer. A sense of an innate and naive consciousness should be conveyed to give the art a human character.

When choosing work for the gallery, I look for this feeling of letting go - allowing the individuality and joy for painting shine through the work of art.

November 15th marked the beginning of our third year at Village Gift and Fine Art located in the Baldwin House Annex (Reading Room) building at Front and Dickenson Streets.

Our challenge to keep new and unique crafts and gifts has been met with accolades and many return clients. With an excellent range of prices and ever-growing roster of artists, you will always find true treasures created exclusively for us. Stop by on your next trip to Lahaina.

We are featuring Keola Sequeira's beautiful Cook Island pine hand-turned bowls, koa paddles and canoes.

JOYCE CLARK HANA COAST
OIL 46" X 34" $12,500

VILLAGE GIFT & FINE ART

KEOLA SEQUEIRA
HAND-TURNED VESSEL
COOK ISLAND PINE, 19" H, $3,700

JANUARY 7 - 27, 2005 120 DICKENSON STREET KIT GENTRY • CARLETON KINKADE

Artist's Reception: Friday, January 7th, 6 - 9 pm

KIT GENTRY WAIMEA CANYON OIL 9" X 12" $4,500

Kit's keen perception of Maui's incredible beauty leaves us in awe. While ever-challenging himself to perfect, in oil, the tender light or shimmering water, Kit successfully re-invents the term realism. Kit's in-gallery demonstration is Jan. 14th. All are welcome.

Carlton's unconventional attitude to his diverse subject matter keeps us in anticipation of his next work. Join us at Carleton's in-gallery demonstration on Jan. 21st, 6-9pm.

CARLETON KINKADE THE OPTIMIST OIL 16" X 20" $1,900

JANUARY 28 - FEBRUARY 17, 2005
TAGAMI & POWELL • RECENT WORK
Artists' Reception Friday, January 28th 6 - 9 pm

HIROSHI TAGAMI "MEMORIES OF THE PAST"
OIL 8" X 14" $1,400

Our second show for Hiroshi Tagami and Michael Powell will reflect their first full year living on Maui. Although they both work with oil and palette knife, their paintings have the unique style of each artist. We look forward to presenting a broad range of landscapes and seascapes. Please join us in celebrating the opening of this exciting show.

M. POWELL THE BLOW HOLE OIL 23" X 30" $2,400

FEBRUARY 18 - MARCH 10, 2005

Artist's Reception Friday, February 18th, 6-9pm

BETTY HAY FREELAND • "MAUI, HE LEI HO'AILONA"

B. H. FREELAND LEI HO'AILONA 24" X 30" OIL $5,600
Giclée prints 8" x 10" $350 or 20" x 26" $1,200

With each show Betty Hay becomes more enthralled with communicating her powerful submergence in her Hawaiian heritage. With care, she paints splendid views depicting mystery and discovery.

Betty Hay's paintings provide a view into the Hawaii of days past, and she is committed to efforts that preserve the land and culture. She created a new image to benefit the Friends of Moku'ula. Executive Director, Akoni Akana, has named the painting "Lei Ho'ailona," which translates to adornment of affection, beloved omens used by Kilokilo for divining and predicting future events. The image of the rainbow brings promises of the future. The low clouds over Mauna Lei on the Island of Lanai are also an omen of things to come. The sale of this painting, "Lei Ho'ailona," and the giclée reproductions are in essence a fundraiser, with a portion of the proceeds going to Friends of Moku'ula.

GEORGE ALLAN SAILING CANOE OIL 12" X 15" $2,300

George's annual show is always eagerly awaited. When speaking of George, all I can say is "genuine". His love for people and art are intertwined to communicate to the viewer his reality of light and shadow along with his love of life. There is always an intangible joy that finds your eye and keeps you entranced. With a variety of subjects, his show is one you won't want to miss.

APRIL 1 - 21, 2005
MACARIO PASCUAL

Artist's Reception: Friday, April 1st, 6 - 9 pm

Macario Pascual needs no introduction. His fine oil paintings reflect a superior master's touch. Always giving us tender light-filled atmospheres, his work glows and keeps your eyes entranced. We invite you to come and meet Mac and celebrate his work.

WORKER IN BLUE SHIRT 24" x 18" Oil $4,500

APRIL 22 - MAY 12, 2005
PAMELA ANDELIN

Artist's Reception: Friday, April 22nd, 6 - 9 pm

Pam Andelin springs to life before her on-location canvas with verve and joy. With each wave of her brush she brings her subject into striking color patterns and contrasts. Pam's plein-air oils invoke a sense of times past. You are cordially invited to our opening reception for this exceptional artist.

JUNE 10 - 30, 2005 • Amelia's Room
Art Night Reception • Friday, June 10th 6 - 9 pm

Recently, we have transformed a section of our Contemporary Gallery into a new direction. Amelia's Room (named after my 6th grandchild) will be growing into a wearable art and accessories shop. With Cathy Apo's enthusiastic management, Amelia's Room will be showing some of our island's finest fabric artists. We hope to spotlight some of our regular artists' works transferred to clothing design. I am excited about this new addition to our already eclectic array of beauty. Come visit Amelia's Room.
